

MARIAH FESER

FULL-STACK WEB DEVELOPER

About Me

I am thrilled to be in the world of development as a graduate of a full-stack coding program through University of Toronto. My previous experience of owning, operating and selling a business in the beauty industry has taught and instilled the importance of the customer service, that benefits in any business setting. This knowledge of how vital the customer experience is will provide value to the development of any web application for both the users and developers.
